BEST PRACTICE -1

1. Title of the practice:

Mentoring Programme

2. Objectives Of the practice:

Students come from diverse socio-economic background. Students may be hence facing problems which they may ordinarily not freely divulge. Mentors seek to offer support, guidance, encouragement. Mentor mentee develop a relation of trust and faith. Mentor is required to invest time and patience to understand the difficulties and offer solutions, apprise of different schemes available e.g., schemes related to financial assistance and career opportunities.

3. Context:

Students may be facing a host of problems: personal, financial, academic, health related, domestic which they may not be willing to express to anyone causing emotional imbalance and frustration. Through this programme, a mentor develops a close relation of trust allowing the student to confide in them.

4. Practice

In our college we have a committee headed by a convener coordinating the mentoring programme. In this programme each mentor teacher gets around 30 to 40 students as mentees. The committee does the work of allotting mentees to mentors. Mentors conduct regular meetings with their mentees. Mentor teacher collects contact details, personal ambitions, difficulties faced, etc. Mentors also discuss issues like discipline, punctuality, attendance, examination rules and regulations. Mentors provide motivation and gives guidance in time management, stress management, overcoming various distractions, importance of sports and co-curricular activities, importance of civic sense, personal hygiene, career guidance.

5. Evidence of success:

The scheme was a very vital link between the students and the college . Students have been participating in placement drives. Students are made aware of various scholarship schemes provided by the college and other sources and given guidance to apply for the same. Students are encouraged to participate in various co curricular and academic activities.

6. Problems encountered and resources required:

1. Department wise allocation of student mentees to their mentor was done where possible however as student teacher ratio in all departments is not the same and hence students were also allotted to teachers belonging to other departments.
2. Due to packed lecture timings and resulting space and time constraint; it is difficult to arrange simultaneous formal sessions. Every teacher mentee hold sessions with the students according to their time table. So multiple sessions are required to be held for the same group as students belong to different subject combinations.
